Rainbow Reads

January can be a very grey month, it's dark, damp and cold, so we wanted to have a bit of fun with a colourful booklist. The books are very varied, but all have a colour in the title.

The Green Road
by Anne Enright

Rosaleen's adult children return home to Ireland for one last Christmas before their childhood home is sold.

Pink Mist
by Owen Sheers

A verse-drama about three young soldiers from Bristol who are deployed to Afghanistan.

Ruby
by Cynthia Bond

Voodoo, faith and racism converge in an East Texas town, where a man has to choose between the sister who raised him and the woman he has loved since he was a boy.

Indigo Donut by Patrice Lawrence

Two very different young people discover who loves them, and who they can love back.

Nabokov's Favorite Word is Mauve by Ben Blatt

An exploration of what the numbers can reveal about literature's classics, number one bestsellers and our own writing.

Purple Hibiscus by Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie

When Nigeria begins to fall apart under a military coup, Kambili is sent away where she discovers a life away from her father.

HAN KANG

THE WHITE BOOK

The White Book
by Han King

A stunning meditation on the colour white; about light, about death and about ritual.

The Orange Grove by Larry Tremblay

Twins brothers Amed and Aziz live in the peaceful shade of their family's orange grove. But when a bomb kills their grandparents, they become pawns in the country's civil war.

Silver Bay
by Jojo Moyes

Liza thinks that Silver Bay can offer the freedom and safety she craves, until Mike arrives and the peace is shattered.

Yellow Dog by Martin Amis

When 'dream husband' Xan Meo is attacked he suffers a head injury and a personality change, becoming an anti-husband and anti-father.

The Mirror World of Melody Black by Gavin Extence

When Abby discovers her neighbour dead, she can't shake the feeling that if she hadn't gone to his flat, none of what happened next would have happened.

Gold
by Chris Cleave

A story of the extraordinary effort and dedication that go into the pursuit of victors as two friends compete in sports.

READING GROUPS FOR EVERYONE

Bluebird, Bluebird by Attica Locke

In a place where time has forgotten, two murders stir up a hornet's nest of resentment.

Red Dust Road by Jackie Kay

The discovery that inheritance is about much more than genes, that we are shaped by songs as much as by cells, and that what triumphs, ultimately, is love.
